The first lecture looks at Regulated Costume Regulations which dates to China's first dynasty – The Qin 221-206BCE. We will then trace the evolution of court costume through to the fall of the Ming Dynasty in 1644.

The second lecture will focus on the last dynasty of China, Qing Dynasty 1644-1911. This will explore regulated, mandatory, formal Court Costume, dress accessories, plus Insignia of Rank, worn by members of the Chinese Imperial Clan, including the Emperor, and Civil and Military Officials. This period represented the pinnacle of artistic and technical creation.

The final lecture will consider informal wear and dress accessories for Chinese High Society in the 19th Century, where the wearer was no longer constrained by Imperial Regulations. These freedoms included robes, hats, collars, jewellery and footwear, including bound feet shoes.
